

Last night, Norwegian A.U. brandished, the first female Ballon d'Or in history during the ceremony which that } conferred the title of { pro claimed her best female player of the year.

"..." she declared.

The BO was created for men by the France-Football magazine in 1986. Initially, given to European players, it has rewarded the best male player in the world. So why did we had six decades to see this prize awarded to female players as well who, for over 75% of them, are not professional soccer, and must have a regular job to earn their living.

Point of reentry

- @27-28 lost 37% earning power
- earn less / lower salaries
/ paid less

Solutions ?

- @30-31 "should keep in contact --- part-time projects"
- @34-36 "obligation to keep in touch --- up to date --- smooth re-entry"
- @34 "carers at home --- allowances --- circumstances"
- @31 "offer re-training"
